IN BINKY's HOOD (12.21.08) Sunday night at 911pm:

Christmas is here in 4 days, celebrity homes are foreclosing and DMX just don't get it. Well I am back at ya and ready to kick off the New Year just right. I partied for most of my life on New Years', then I would always go to church and bring in the New Years', and the last 3 years or so, I would just stay home with the family and just enjoy myself. No big deal. This year, I have not decided. We'll see.

Celebrities are normal people folks, so stop putting them right next to God. Everybody is having hard times right now. I know a gentleman that is a great actor and should be getting Oscars, but he isn't. He is having financial problems. How do these people get their homes foreclosed on? Simple... Losing your job, cut backs and living above your means. There is the answer.

DMX is called to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ... DMX is fighting it and feeling the heat. I know he is reading this. Listen to your calling man. Yaw don't think I am crazy.

Peace to Rob my man. Thug Life Army foe life... Good dude and always getting a shout from his boy binky mack. Stay up Rob and God bless.

And can you believe I still have very close friends that want to get a record deal the old fashion way. No no, it is now time to take advantage of the internet & get out there and hustle your projects. Shout out to Netra Lauderdale who is out there doing show after show and taking her career into her own hands. I will have her in the HOOD soon...

Lately I have been hard at work with Don Doe on projects for Keesha Rowe and Boo Hef. They both will be coming out independent early 2009. It's going down. We are cooking up classics to make sure our music can become bigger than trash. Quality!
