About The album:

This explosive new album is executive produced by The Outlawz and features production by Focus, The Legendary Traxster, Dani Kartel, and A.D. Future.

Originally assembled by late rap icon Tupac Shakur in the mid-1990s by pulling members from a number of his affiliate groups, the Outlawz were set to be the biggest super group in rap history. But that dream suffered a number of setbacks, as Tupac and Kadafi were killed and Fatal and Napoleon left the group.

By 2003, the group had released a string of hit independent projects and had appeared on albums that had collectively sold more than 40 million copies.

Nonetheless, the group The Outlawz had become just Kastro, Young Noble and E.D.I..

"Everything we do is therapy," Noble says. "Everything we go through, we put it into our music.

We learned that from Pac.

That's what music is about, experience.

That's why some people will rather listen to oldies that what's out now.
