

Booking Promotion Technology Seminar

Written by Staff ID1211

Tuesday, 19 April 2005 05:41 -

OnlineGigs.com will present a seminar at the Tippetina's Music Office Co-op regarding ways to effectively use technology to book and promote your band, performer or event. The seminar is free to the public and will be held on Thursday, April 27th at 6pm. The Music Office Co-Op is located at 4040 Tulan Ave., New Orleans LA 70119, (504) 483-2880.

Onlinegigs is a powerful tool for musicians, agents, record companies and managers. It will automate the administration of booking and promoting your band or multiple bands. The site features a huge directory of industry contacts and the ability to track correspondences with each contact. Subscribers can easily issue a performance contract, remotely update any website with the new gig information, automatically generate a tour itinerary with driving directions and issue press releases to the local media in any market in the country. All with the click of a button.