Suge Knight's Death Row Records, perhaps the biggest and most influential hip-hop rap label of all time; has released 'Tupac Live at the House of Blues' – DVD and CD.

The new DVD released by Death Row Records / Eagle Rock Entertainment 'Tupac Live at the House of Blues' is a piece of hip-hop / rap history.

Before the death of rap icon Tupac Shakur, before the 'inmates' lawsuits began, back when the 'family' of rappers and hip-hop artists on Death Row Records were happy to be eating and were happy to be under the 'umbrella' of Suge Knight and Death Row Records – back when they were 'family' – has been released on this new DVD that is a great addition to any hip-hop collection.

To see legendary west coast rap icon Tupac Shakur on stage doing his thing, along side the Outlawz, truly brings back memories of great days from the past.

Along with the live performances of Tupac there are also performances by Snoop Dogg, Nate Dogg, Jodeci, Daz, Kurupt and the entire Death Row Family.

From Tupac and the Lawz to Snoop and the Dogg Pound to even Suge, to see the 'family' together and enjoying each others company reminds all the 'haters' that 'yes it was all good at one time'. This is truly a have to have for any Tupac fan or any hip-hop and rap fan.

Among the 'bonus' features are 5 Tupac videos. This is the only complaint I would have on the DVD. The videos are the 'clean' versions of the videos. This is the only thing that is wrong with this DVD.

The CD is a soundtrack of the DVD.

This is an energy filled performance by the legendary Tupac Shakur (2Pac) along with the most of 'Tha Row' family. A great collection of different tracks performed in this collection.

The DVD's video is clear and the sound is great. Rate 9 out of 10. A must have. Check it out fo sho.
